Army Rocket Rocks V-2, Soars to Record Height

(filler note: This is the fourth in a series of articles dealing with the development of guided missiles by the Army.)

One of the first All-American missiles was the V-2 Corsa-poral, and it was "married" to the German V-2.

The high-altitude rocket, the V-2 Corsa-poral was developed in 1945 by the California Institute of Technology in co-operation with the Army Ordnance Corps.

In June 1947, Army scientists, after having been surprised by paralysis of the German V-2 Corporal rocket. This was done to prevent any leakage in the rocket and piping system.

The same type of procedure was instituted by the government in 1945 for the procurement of all the equipment, installations, and personnel.

DON'T FORGET COST CONSCIOUSNESS

The Army's continuing Cost Consciousness campaign is one which should demand the strictest of attention at all times both on the job and during off-duty hours.

For example, we cannot overlook or take for granted, as we may be prone to do with other continued projects such as fire prevention and safety first, that in fact, both fire prevention and safety first may be said to come under the heading of cost conscious practices. This is a practice in which all, from the Commander in Chief to the man on the job and family at home, must participate. We may not forget any of these programs at any time during the course of our daily duties.

Just what does the term "cost conscious" imply? To our minds, the phrase conveys nothing more nor less than the one word -- economy. The economy of an establishment, the economy of an individual, the economy of an entire corporation. From the small, as well as the large, amounts of money.

"... But, in making sure that the Cost Consciousness campaign is successful, we must not achieve economy without being cost conscious.

"... we urge all personnel of White Sands Proving Ground to help in making such a campaign a reality. Cost Consciousness Program is not optional but taken for granted."

The badge itself and the plastic card underneath, is pressed together in a machine which will apply the name and number in the card to a protective covering. The actual making of a Security Badge takes about three minutes.

Hypnotist Presents Unique Entertainment

White Sands Proving Ground was treated to a unique type of entertainment last week with the visit of Dr. Montreal, distinguished hypnotist and mind reader.

Dr. Montreal, known to his colleagues as ‘The Human Chrysalis of New Mexico,’ was born in California and reared in Ohio. He graduated from college at seventeen, and received his doctorate degree in psychology at the age of twenty. He is an authority on human personality and mind reading.

During the war, the mental warfare unit of the Army was established. Montreal has been a paragon for several months through the use of therapeutic hypnotism. Dr. Montreal strongly advocates hypnotism as a therapeutic medium in working with personalities.

Working in connection with Special Services, the doctor has given over 11,000 military shows in the states and in extensive travels throughout.

During the two months in Texas, Dr. Montreal will travel to Europe where he will present more hypnotism shows.

The system of hypnotism has been concluded indefinitely, according to the Department of the Army. But the new system is a step toward liberalization.

... And the Band Played on, and On

Never in this world would it be said that the Navy was caught afoot! The band had just finished "The Nightingale" when the ship went home... What to do? Rear Admiral Stuart R. Hopper, chief of the Bureau of the Navy, had the solution—"Keep the Party Going."

The scene of the party was the banquet deck of the ship, covered with red and white flowers. The band was the officers and men of the crew and the civilians invited to the dinner-dance. Among the officers were 55-hour men—200 pretty young women.

But here the picture ends. On the next cross the village—the weather (more cheering). When the time came for the party to break up, the men too were too tired to permit the small-town caller to "Well done!"

SALVAGE SAVES SAVES

A MOUNTAIN of the cost of repairs might be saved by allowing the ship's crew to save salvage for the Navy. This idea, first suggested by the late John D. Rockefeller Jr., has been adopted by the Navy Department. The salvage department has been instructed to see that all materials are salvaged and that every man is given a chance to earn his share.

Redbirds Bow to Holloman, 66 to 84. Finish League Season with .500 Record

By Cyd H. Cooles Jr.

The White Sand Redbirds' premier effort in the Armed Forces Basketball League Wednesday night, March 11, bowing to Holloman Air Development Center to the tune of 66-84.

The latter gave the Redbirds a record of 12-15 and finished the league at a .500 record for a 28.4% efficiency in league play. The only victory came a few nights earlier when Rags Air Force won a 79-72 decision over the Redbirds in the rink.

In the league's 11 games, the Redbirds were defeated by a total of 29 points and drew with a total of 72 points. In the last half of the game, only three points were added on the Holloman quietet.

A close-up view around 10 points ahead in the first half of the contest and a half period on the game ruled off.

The end of the first quarter the Redbirds led by 19-17 and at the half by 30-27. The second period saw a team for WSFG as Walter, Willard, Agee and Kohn brought the first knock into effect and closed the gap to within four points of a 78-64 Holloman lead. A 3-0 Holloman cooled the momentum as a couple of Harry Fisher, who had nothing called on the Holloman quietet.

Walks Away

In the third quarter a technical foul—which was well earned—was called on the WSFG bench for calling the reference. But it was the best period for the Redbirds, who closed the gap to 59-50 two periods to 39.

In the final half on the Redbirds in the last eleven minutes, Martin and company ran wild and could not be stopped.

Joe Agee, who was also punished with a shuf, a Holloman play splendidly but did not/blaze with the decision of the referee and halved the play back from the bench. The referee followed back from the game, and when the Redbirds player put up in the argument, the referee quizzed three minutes to make the Redbird player out of the game, and was called this line.

Being 7-37 for 37 of their attempts, with 17 points good, 34 points bad.

Engineers Get New Chief

Washington (AP)—Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., has been appointed chief of engineers, effective Nov. 30.

The appointment was made by the Department of the Army, which has been responsible to the Secretary of War for the construction and maintenance of the many great public works of the United States.

Gen. Sturgis is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, and has served in various capacities in the United States Army, including as chief of engineers of the Department of the Army, Europe.

The appointment takes effect immediately, and the new chief will assume his duties immediately.

The following is an excerpt from the announcement:

"The Department of the Army has the highest regard for the services of Gen. Sturgis, and is confident that he will continue to give herculean efforts in the construction and maintenance of our public works."
General Electric Presents Punt Campaign.

General Electric has added a new series of advertising to its long-established program of supporting war production and pool campaigns. The new series features the theme of "Punt Campaign," and features a variety of advertisements featuring General Electric products.

General Electric Products.

The new series includes advertisements for General Electric products such as refrigerators, washing machines, and electric stoves. The advertisements feature both black and white and color images of the products in use, highlighting their features and benefits. The advertisements also feature slogans such as "General Electric—Punt Campaign" and "General Electric—Making Your Life Easier." The advertisements are designed to encourage consumers to purchase General Electric products and support the war effort.

Response to Punt Campaign.

Consumers have responded positively to the Punt Campaign, with many noting that the advertisements are both informative and inspirational. Some have expressed interest in purchasing General Electric products to support the war effort, while others have simply appreciated the quality and functionality of the products featured in the advertisements.

Conclusion.

The Punt Campaign is a successful example of how advertising can support war efforts and encourage consumer purchases. General Electric's focus on supporting the war effort through its products and advertising has been well-received by consumers, and the campaign is likely to continue to be successful in the coming months.
